

The i human 2000 Peace Initiative began with The Gun Sculpture, a Millennium project conceived by Edmonton artists Sandra Bromley and Wallis Kendal. The Initiative has gained the support of hundreds of individuals and groups from around the globe, all working towards a more peaceful world.

I came up with this emblem for the Northern Alberta International Children's Festival while doodling with a set of crayons, and my sketch was adopted as the official logo.

The StoryTellers Society participates in many community events to foster the age-old tradition of storytelling.

For 14 years I had the pleasure of designing promotional material for the Alberta Baroque Ensemble. Paul Schieman, oboist with the Edmonton Symphony, is the founder and director of a group which has enriched the local music scene since 1980. Their logo reflects the elegance of musical style during the Baroque period.

The logo for the Edmonton Symphony Orchestra combined the initials "e" and "s" into a design suggestive of a treble clef.

ECHO is an acronym for the Edmonton Chamber Orchestra. For the logo I used letters adapted from elements of musical notation: bass clef, common time signature, C clef and whole note.

The Alberta Quilt was a festival of theatrical performances initiated by the Citadel Theatre. The design solution was obvious.

Edmonton's Citadel Theatre is the largest regional theatre in Canada. The logo is a stylized amphitheatre, which also has the appearance of a jewel. The five "facets" represent the theatre's five different performing spaces.

Northern Light Theatre is one of Edmonton's oldest.

DaCamera Singers – logo derived from the square choir formation of olden days, with the four harmony groups facing each other. Also included are clefs used in music notation.

A handbell in motion is used to symbolize the Alberta English Handbell Ringers Guild.

The Robertson Wesley Ringers, founded by Bill Hutton, wanted a logo to use on their gowns and concert promotional material.

The Arts District refers to the wealth of cultural facilities around Sir Winston Churchill Square. In the quilt logo, overlapping squares representing the five senses radiate from a vibrant central square.

Vincent Varga, former director of the Edmonton Art Gallery, wanted a contemporary look for the gallery logo.

A banner to identify the Edmonton Art Gallery, one of the stakeholders of the Arts District.

Sulyma Productions manages a number of very successful productions across North America, including Edmonton's famous Shumka Dancers.

Josh Keller's Global Arts organization brought artists from all over the world to perform in the popular World at Winspear series.

In the competition to design a logo for the former Multi-culturalism Commission, I came up with the slogan, One Heart Many Colours, which won the design contract.
